IF NOT FOR YOU (A Tribute to a donor)

If not for you
There would not be me
That gift of life
You gave to me
There were tears of joy.
There were tears of sorrow.

You gave me hope,
For brighter tomorrow.
I wiped away the tears
Tried not to cry
Knew some would live
And others die.

The only way
I could understand
Was to realize this
Was part of God's plan.

Not for you
What would I do?
God chose someone special
He sent you.

Now a part of you
In me has thrived
Thanks to you Donor,
I have survived

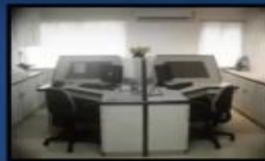

And with each new day,
This thought comes through,
I would not be alive,
If not for you.

What is a Will?

Will means the legal declaration of the intention of a testator with respect to his property which he desires to be carried into effect after his death.

- A Will helps to address some important issues-
 - Clarity regarding distribution: This is important as assets can be distributed as one likes.
 - Avoidance of disputes: An explicit distribution of assets minimizes the possibility of disputes among family members particularly as personal laws otherwise take over.
 - Confidentiality: Doing what you want to do.
- A Will gives you an opportunity to make provisions for minor children and children with special needs as per your wish.
- A Will helps you address the transfer of offshore assets.

City docs seek justice for Rajasthan gynaecologist who died by suicide

The Association of Medical Consultants, Mumbai, claims that the police violated the fundamental principles of deciding medical negligence as laid down by the Supreme Court

VINOD KUMAR MENON
vinodm@mid-day.com

THE Association of Medical Consultants, Mumbai has written a letter to the chief minister of Rajasthan, condemning the police action of registering a murder case against an obstetrician and gynaecologist, Dr Archana Sharma, compelling her to die of suicide.

A pregnant woman, under the care of Dr Sharma, had died of postpartum haemorrhage, after which a murder case was filed against Dr Sharma.

The association, which is a registered body with over 15,000 private medical practitioners, claims that the police violated the fundamental principles of deciding medical negligence, as laid down by the Supreme Court in its Jacob Mathew case judgment. It mandated a reference to a medical board before filing any case against a doctor and had raised concerns about such arbitrary and coercive police action.

Case filed under pressure
Dr Nilima Vaidya Bhamare, President of the Association and also a practising obstetrician and gynaecologist said, "We are agast by the manner in which our fellow colleague (Dr Archana Sharma) was accused and humiliated by people with a vested interest in Lalot, Dausa district in Rajasthan. Dr Sharma was accused of committing 'murder' by local influential thugs, and the worst, the local Lalot police, who under due pressure, even registered an offence under section 302 against her, for an offence she had never committed."

"Dr Sharma had agreed to handle the complicated case of the pregnant woman when other hospitals had refused admission. She did her best to save the woman even when she developed postpartum haemorrhage (also called PPH), when a woman has heavy bleeding after giving birth, a serious complication. The woman had earlier delivered twin girls in the same hospital, run by Dr Sharma, a couple of years ago," said Dr Bhamare.

ing in a government hospital and started practice in his smaller towns with the aim of giving quality medical care to women there. Unfortunately, the locals who had witnessed all the good work done by Dr Sharma and Dr Suresh Upadhyay, a practising psychiatrist, and managing director at Anant hospital, did not come forward to support them," said Dr Bhamare.

When asked if the chief minister of Rajasthan had reacted to their letter, Dr Bhamare said no, saying, "We are in touch with various medical associations in Rajasthan and this is a case of violence against humanity. We are demanding a central toll-free number 'save the savious' so that in case of similar situations, doctors and medical staff won't be hounded to death or forced to end their life by a mob with vested interests."

IMA condemns incident
Dr Suresh Kadam, vice president, Indian Medical Association (IMA) Maharashtra, "This is a classic example of contempt of court by the Rajasthan police and all concerned officers who worked in connivance with the protesting parties demanding coercive action of registering a case of murder against the treating doctor. They all should be tried for not only contempt of court but also for abetting suicide under section 306 of the Indian Penal Code. If police without approval of magistrates start registering offences of murder for any death under medical care, then to doctor

CM tweets in support
Amidst the nationwide protest by doctors' associations, Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot tweeted, "The suicide of Dr Archana Sharma is deeply saddening. We consider doctors as gods. To save the life of patients, every doctor tries their best, but in case of any mishap, it is not justified to blame the doctors." The CM has initiated a thorough investigation and announced on Thursday appropriate action.

1% metro cess on property registrations back in 4 cities

Mumbai, Thane, Nagpur, Pune on list, implementation stayed in pandemic

The Maharashtra government will once again start collecting one per cent metro cess on property purchases from April 1 in Mumbai, Thane, Nagpur and Pune cities with the lifting of all COVID-19 restrictions, an official said on Friday.

Bhasha Gogriani, principal secretary (urban development), said the state government had taken a decision in February 2019 to levy one per cent metro cess on property purchases in four cities including Mumbai, but its implementation was stayed after a year due to the outbreak of COVID-19 in March 2020.

"This is not a new decision. We are revising the earlier decision, which had to be discontinued due to the pandemic," he said.

Due to the metro cess, stamp duty on property transactions will go up by one per cent, he said.

"Our target is to get revenue of 700 crore to 800 crore annually. Till March 2020, we got a revenue of approximately 8500 crore to 1500 crore," he said.
